This is a last call for your entry in the GREAT IEEE COMPUTER SOCIETY LOGO DESIGN CONTEST! If, for some inexplicable reason, you missed the announcement in the last issue of Computer magazine, here are some of the pertinent facts:

- We would like our own symbol, our very own logo, to adorn our stationary, business cards, banners, and what have you.
- We are asking you, the Group members, to submit your ideas for our new logo (deadline is November 15). Please draw them in black ink on white paper.
- Entries should be sent to: John Kirkley, Administrator, IEEE Computer Group, 16400 Ventura Blvd., Encino, Calif. 91316.
- The GRAND PRIZE is being decided on at a meeting that falls just after press time so in January we will not only announce the winner but his mind-blowing prize as well.

We've already had a number of entries and to give you an idea of some of the designs here is a random sample (we can't print them all because of space restrictions):
