So you're a computer expert!

For just $4.00, you can prove it once and for all.

The four bucks makes you a member of the IEEE Computer Society through December 31, 1973. And the Society is, as you probably know, the computer world's most meaningful, informative and active professional organization. As a member, you'll have great (no, change that to super) benefits and services. To wit:

Each month, you'll receive COMPUTER, The Voice of the Computer Systems Design Professional. This is the only magazine in the computer and information processing field that is written solely by computer experts, to computer experts, for computer experts. To top it off, COMPUTER is beautifully designed, crammed with information, immensely readable.

There's more, too. Lots more. The IEEE Transactions on Computers, for example ($6 a copy for non-members). Transactions contains significant, carefully refereed papers. (And please note the words "significant" and "carefully refereed." ) The Society's marvelous Repository service is yours to use also, for obtaining printed or microfiche copies of manuscripts submitted to the Transactions (whether published or not).

You'll also get significant price breaks on registering for COMPCON (the annual international conference) and scads of other Society-sponsored or co-sponsored conferences, symposia and workshops—not to mention cash savings of at least 25% on Conference Digests and Proceedings.

We could go on and on about the Computer Society. Just as you'll go on and on, year after year, after you take advantage of this special membership offer now. Fill out the coupon below, send it to us with your $4.00, and you'll quickly receive your IEEE Computer Society membership certificate, your first issue of COMPUTER, and all the rest. Plus, you'll definitely be a certified computer expert. Really, it's as simple as that.
