FROM THE PRESIDENT

Farewell message and election results

The end of December concludes my two terms as president of the IEEE Computer Society. It has been a great experience. We have served at a good time in the evolution of the computer industry. The society has prospered, as has the industry.

The challenge continues to be to provide membership services consistent with a growing and changing industry. This is not an easy task, but one I pass on to my newly elected successor with confidence that you will be well served. Professor Tse-yun Feng is a proven, dedicated, and accomplished society officer, and there is no one more deserving of the Computer Society presidency.

The membership has just elected its new principal officers and governing board members. In addition to Professor Feng, they are:

First Vice-President: Edward A. Parrish, Jr.
Second Vice-President: Michael C. Mulder

Governing Board (term ending December 31, 1980):

Lowell D. Amdahl
Kenneth R. Anderson
Oscar N. Garcia
E. Douglas Jensen
G. Jack Lipovski
Stuart E. Madnick
Roy L. Russo
Martha E. Sloan
Harold S. Stone
Russell E. Theisen

We offer our congratulations and our support to these new officers for the year ahead.

Merlin G. Smith
President
