CALLS FOR IEEE CS PUBLICATIONS

IEEE Software magazine is seeking articles for a July/August 2007 special issue on software patterns. The issue will review the software pattern community’s achievements and practices, and assess how patterns have influenced thinking and practices in software development.

Possible topics include the impact of patterns on development processes; the mining, evolution, and revisiting of patterns; and capturing domain expertise with patterns, including shepherding and writers’ workshops.

Submissions are due by 15 January 2007. For author instructions and a complete call for papers, visit www.computer.org/software.
