12 Can We Stop Software Theft?
Richard H. Stern and Jeffrey L. Squires
"Purloining" object code from a ROM is probably not an infringement of US copyright law. However, it is unfair, and there is ample ground for legal action preventing it.

26 Personal Computers Aid the Handicapped
Ware Myers
Personal computers can be used to improve the quality of life for handicapped people—as well as to recover a wealth of human resources that would otherwise be lost.

41 The General-Purpose Interface Bus
Richard Gilbert
Inadequate documentation by instrument manufacturers is the source of most GPIB difficulties. A wise purchasing strategy may be the best solution to these problems.

53 A Vector Processor Based on One-Bit Microprocessors
Wayne M. Loucks, Martin Snelgrove, and Safwat G. Zaky
This low-cost auxiliary processor is based on commercially available microprocessors. Its parallel capabilities enhance the performance of small computer systems in vector and associative operations.

63 Structured Programming Can Be Applied to Microprocessors—Even by Novices: A Review of Structured Microprocessor Programming
