Without Software-Defined Environments – There is No Next Generation Technology

Virtually every major new technology the world is waiting for – from 5G to virtualized machines – depends on software-defined environments (SDE). With the demand for virtualization staring you in the face, you must decide if you’ll do a major overhaul of your systems or move to SDE in smaller pieces.