Message from the Program Co-chairs

ATS 2010

It is our great honor to be able to serve the ATS’10 as program co-chairs. ATS 2010 is covering the many dimensions of Testing for computing systems.

The conference provides us with an open platform to contact the excellent technical programs on the state-of-the-art research achievements and the latest development in the areas of testing and fault tolerant computing.

In this year’s ATS, we received 152 submissions from 25 countries and regions. Each paper was carefully reviewed by 3 referees internationally. The paper reviewing work was based on their innovations and novelty of solution described as well as the other factors such as the correctness, usefulness and the applications of their work. Of all submissions, we accepted 60 regular papers and 16 short papers. All of the accepted papers are included in the proceedings of ATS 2010.

We greatly appreciate the hard working of all the Program Committee members and the referees on their paper reviewing work. As time pressing in the reviewing work, we feel sorry for often sending reminder of reviewing deadline to the referees during the reviewing work. Therefore, we will show our sincere thanks to all the referees’ for their brilliant contributions to the conference.

We do hope that the conference would be successful and fruitful for all the participants, and that it could provide you with wide opportunities to gain more new and valuable academic information.
