Multi-modal Interfaces – Challenges and Opportunities

Chris Harding
Iowa State University, USA

Chris Harding is an assistant professor at Iowa State University’s Human-computer-interaction program and is interested in designing multi-modal interfaces for geoscientists. In his presentation, he will share some of the experiences of working with geoscientific Virtual Environments and multi-modal interfaces over the last years and talk about the opportunities and challenges of increasing the use and interest in multi-modal interfaces.